

Dear Grade-Five Families,

Every August I begin to get excited for the start of school. You know it is coming when you start seeing the "Back-to-School" flyers and sales advertisements in your mailbox. I loved the feel of new notebooks and folders, and the smell of new erasers...then you get to organize it all, so much fun! Well, consider this your first notice of the back-to-school season! Because things may take longer to ship this year and students cannot share any supplies in school, the fifth-grade teachers developed a common supply list (copied below). The materials on this list are suggestions of what the students can use to start the year (some teachers may have one or two other specialized requests, but we will give plenty of time to order those when the time is right). All teachers, regardless of the team, have agreed to these supplies. If you have any questions, please let me know.
