Relative Pronouns

Relative Pronouns are essential to expanding your knowledge with Latin grammar and comprehension. Instead of ONE THOUGHT AT A TIME, we will be able to COMBINE two complete thoughts into one sentence.

Relative Pronouns are pronouns that introduce relative clauses.

Relative Clauses relate to a noun in the main clause.

An antecedent is the noun that the relative clause is related to in the main clause.

Let's look at the following two sentences.

victima sacerdotem pugnāvit. victima clāmābat.

We can combine these two sentence with a relative pronoun and relative clause.

victima, [quae clāmābat], sacerdotem pugnāvit.

victima = antecedent

quae = relative pronoun

quae clāmābat = relative clause

victima sacerdotem pugnāvit = main clause

*Grammar Points*

Notice that quae is feminine and singular like victima (antecedent).

Notice that quae is introducing the relative clause.

Relative Clause

Good rules to go by when locating and separating the relative clause from the main clause:

I) CIRCLE the relative pronoun

II) [BRACKET] the relative clause (often begins with relative pronoun and ends with the first verb you see)

III) Determine the antecedent, Draw an ARROW from the circled relative pronoun to its antecedent.

Let's try those III steps with the following examples.

I. rēx quī clāmōrem audivit corōnam gerēbat.

II. rēgīna quae erat in aulā corōnam gerēbat.

III. rēx quī erat irātus corōnam gerēbat.

Here are the Latin forms of the relative pronouns we will focus on in this Stage.

Let's add the English Meanings.

	M	F	N		M	F	N
NOM	quī _____	quae _____	quod _____		quī _____	quae _____	quae _____
ACC	quem _____	quam _____	quod _____		quōs _____	quās _____	quae _____

RELATIVE PRONOUNS

Here are ALL of the relative pronouns. IN BOLD are the Latin forms to focus on in this Stage.

Singular	Plural
Nom	quī	quae	quod	quī	quae	quae
Gen	cuius	cuius	cuius	quōrum	quārum	quōrum
Dat	cui	cui	cui	quibus	quibus	quibus
Acc	quem	quam	quod	quos	quās	quae
Abl	quō	quā	quō	quibus	quibus	quibus

Latin Sentence Example and suggested steps to help you figure out what's what:

fēmina quae erat rēgīnā pulchra prope rēgem sedēbat.

I) Identify the relative pronoun = fēmina quae erat rēgīnā pulchra prope rēgem sedēbat.

II) Indicate which words form the relative clause =

fēmina, [quae erat rēgīnā pulchra], prope rēgem sedēbat.

III) Draw an arrow from the relative pronoun (quae) to its antecedent (femina) =

fēmina, [quae erat rēgīnā pulchra], prope rēgem sedēbat.

IV) Translate:

Latin Grammar Points:

- Notice that quae introduces the relative clause.
- Notice that quae is feminine and singular, like its antecedent, fēmina. Why does that make sense?

Relative Clauses Practice - Nominative

In the following sentences: CIRCLE relative pronoun, [BRACKET] relative clause, DRAW an arrow from relative pronoun to its antecedent, TRANSLATE.

I) rēx quī clāmōrem audivit rēgīnam vocāvit.

---

II) rēgīna quae erat in hortō statuam spectābat.

---

III) plaustrum quod est in viā rotās habet.

---

IV) equī quī in agrō habitābant erant lactissimī.

---

V) victimae quae in agrō sedēbant clāmōrem faciēbant.

---

VI) saxa quae erant crocea agnum servāverunt.

Relative Clauses - all cases

Relative pronouns start off a relative clause by taking the place of a noun mentioned in the main clause of a sentence. This noun in the main clause is known as the antecedent.

REMEMBER, the relative pronoun always matches the antecedent in gender and # (sg/pl) BUT.....

CASE of the relative pronoun is determined by its very own use within the relative clause.

Examples:

nom/Subject. Jigglypuff, who is a student, loves Latin.

gen/Possession. Jigglypuff, whose birthday is in December, is going to be turning 7.

dat/IO. Jigglypuff, whom the teacher gave a pass to, went to the library to make up a quiz.

(or to whom the teacher gave a pass)

acc/DO. Jigglypuff, whom all the students want to sit near, gets along well with everyone.

abl/OOP. The classroom, in which Jigglypuff lives, is a happy place. :)

Relative Clauses Practice - Accusative

When the relative pronoun is in the ACCUSATIVE CASE it is acting as a DIRECT OBJECT. The relative pronoun is no longer the SUBJECT/ doing an action.

e.g. victima sacerdotem pugnavit. rex victimam vidit. = victima, quam rēx vīdit, sacerdotem pugnāvit.

The victim, WHOM the king saw, fought the priest.

I) corōna, quam rēgīnā gerēbat, est in aulā.

---

II) equus, quem nauta videt, ad agrum currit.

---

III) plaustrum, quod pīnceps exspectat, est frāctum.

---

IV) nāvēs, quās imperātor vult, erant pretiōsae.

---

V) sacerdotes, quos imperator salutatur, ad lītus reveniunt.

---

VI) plaustra, quae agni videbant, per viam veniebant.
